This software takes passwords from Opera, Mozilla Firefox and Internet Explorer web browsers. The data can be saved to a file or loaded from the program's interface. Windows XP or above is a prerequisite for the program to run. Mozilla Firefox Password Recovery Tool 3.5 Opera Password Recovery Tool 3.8 Internet Explorer Password Recovery Tool 5.0 Password recovery is one of the most important things for any computer user to keep track of, because most browsers have no password protection and it's impossible to delete the browser's cached data. Mozilla Firefox Password Recovery Tool is a small and portable program designed to the recover passwords of your online accounts stored inside the Firefox web browser. It contains an intuitive set of options that can be tackled with ease, even if you don't have previous experience with password recovery software. However, you should know that it's not designed to crack keys. It only reveals the passwords as long as they're saved. Simple interface for password recovery The app's wrapped in a simple interface made from a single window with a rudimentary look that doesn't put emphasis on graphical elements, but it's easy to navigate. You can either load the Firefox "Login Data" file by locating it with the help of the file browser, or load information from the web browser's "Profile" with the aid of the folder navigator. Worth noting is that it's also possible to retrieve these details from a network location or a removable storage device that contains the Firefox objects. View and copy Mozilla Firefox passwords On task completion, you can view the website URL, user name and password for each identified record. This info can be selected and copied to the Clipboard using the global hotkey or by opening the right-click menu. There are no settings implemented for printing or exporting data to file. Portability advantages The entire program's packed in a single.exe file that you can save to a custom directory on the disk or copy to a USB flash drive, in order to seamlessly run Firefox Password Recovery Tool on any computer with minimum effort. It doesn't modify Windows registry settings, need DLLs or anything else besides Firefox to run
