Autosomal dominant polycystic kidney disease in Southern Italy. ADPKD is the most prevalent monogenetic disease in the Western world, occurring with increasing frequency. It is characterized by the appearance of cysts in the kidneys and liver, and is sometimes associated with cystic lesions in other extra-renal organs. On the basis of these data, we tried to estimate the exact prevalence of ADPKD in Southern Italy. Thus, we investigated the families of a total of 996 (among others) apparently unrelated Italian patients with ADPKD and of 566 healthy subjects (control group). We calculated an average prevalence of 10.4 cases/100,000, which is practically identical to that reported in the literature, and a mean frequency of 1/48 in the families of the patients affected. We found a higher frequency of heterozygotes in the families of the patients than in the control group. The prevalence of ADPKD in Southern Italy is around 10/100,000, which is higher than that observed in the general population. The data also suggest that, among ADPKD cases, a greater proportion is due to the presence of one of the mutant alleles of the disease in the family and that a greater proportion of family members is heterozygous.Effect of dietary essential fatty acid deficiency on ovarian function and estrogen-receptor mRNAs of the rat. Essential fatty acids are known to affect growth and reproduction in mammals. The present study investigated the influence of dietary essential fatty acid deficiency (EFAD) on ovarian function and mRNAs for estrogen-receptors (ERs) alpha and beta and for ERbeta and proliferating cell nuclear antigen (PCNA) in the gonads. After weaning, virgin female rats were fed either an adequate (EFAD) or essential fatty acid-deficient (EFA-D) diet for 2 months. Serum estradiol (E2) levels were significantly lower in EFA-D than in the control (C) group (40.2 +/- 2.9 pg/ml vs. 125.0 +/- 13.0 pg/ml). Primordial (182.5 +/- 18.2 pg/mg protein) and primary follicles (177.5 +/- 18.1 pg/mg protein) in the ovary of EFA-D were significantly lower than that in C (305.0 +/- 37.0 pg/mg protein and 308.2 +/- 35.7 pg/mg protein). For example, if i set it for 20:00 on a Monday it will go off at 19:55 on Saturday. I am not using a notification, i simply want to execute a method. This is how i am implementing it: Calendar calendar = Calendar.getInstance(); calendar.set(Calendar.HOUR_OF_DAY, 20); calendar.set(Calendar.MINUTE, 0); calendar.set(Calendar.SECOND, 0); calendar.set(Calendar.MILLISECOND, 0); if (calendar.getTimeInMillis() > System.currentTimeMillis()){ System.out.println("Alarm set"); Calendar calendar1 = Calendar.getInstance(); calendar1.set(Calendar.HOUR_OF_DAY, 0); calendar1.set(Calendar.MINUTE, 0); calendar1.set(Calendar.SECOND, 0); calendar1.set(Calendar.MILLISECOND, 0); if (calendar1.getTimeInMillis() > System.currentTimeMillis()
