(FCC) chairman has claimed that the agency is “not a bottleneck” for the US telecom sector despite the number of applications for its spectrum having skyrocketed since its auctions began last year. FCC Chairman Ajit Pai made the remarks during a speech at the US Chamber of Commerce during which he laid out the plans for the closing of the spectrum auctions, the US settlement with several countries, and the consolidation of the telecommunications sector over the next five years. “We are not a bottleneck to the market. And we are certainly not a bottleneck to innovation and competition,” Pai said, adding that the FCC, which has been heavily criticized for its auction process, is committed to providing as many frequencies as possible to wireless broadband providers so that consumers can choose from “as many providers as possible.” There have been over 3,000 applications for the FCC’s spectrum in the auction, with most of them focused on the mid-band frequencies, which could provide consumers with broadband service at higher speeds than those currently available. Pai, who earlier in the week was opposed to unlimited waivers for mobile carriers that avoid roaming agreements, appeared to soften his stance on those issues. In February, Pai proposed extending the Mobile User Experience obligation (MUO) waiver to the mid-band spectrum as well as expanding the waiver’s scope to include the higher-frequency 600 MHz frequencies. However, Pai announced that he had heard concerns from the wireless industry that the number of waivers – currently set at 27 – could reach “a level that could inhibit the growth of the wireless industry” and hinder the “vigorous and forward-looking competition” in the wireless market. Pai said that the FCC will extend MUO waivers for the spectrum blocks that are still free but have not yet been auctioned “until we have seen how this affects competition.” The FCC chairman also vowed to continue to discourage “megamergers” by reviewing “unfair and anti-competitive mergers” and by working with Congress to craft new legislation to deal with the industry consolidation. Blumhouse Productions has signed a deal to partner with CBS Films to develop and produce new films. This news arrives as it is revealed that Blumhouse
