Battle against hordes of Daemons and Demons in the Hero Siege - Demon Slayer Bundle! As a Demon Slayer, you can choose between two combat styles to kill your enemies with the magic of God, the power of Mana and the glory of Humanity. The first: Gun Slaying. Try out your new skills as a Gun Slaying, a Gunslinger. Equip a weapon and shoot your enemies. As Demon Slayer you are equipped with the Ultimate Heavy Gun, the Thunder Cannon. Fill it with Mana to increase the damage output. If it runs out, there is no mercy. Or take on the second style: Bone Conjuring. Demon Slayer commands the power of Mana to make the dead revive! A finger hit and a grunt is as good as a Thousand deaths. Undead simply can't resist the Demonic touch. The best strategy for fighting battles against undead is the Bone Conjurer! The Bone Conjurer's abilities: Flesh Worship - revive fallen friends, Blood Magic - increases attack power and resurrection, Blood Lord - provides additional Mana to summon Demons. Enjoy this Double Double Bundle! This Bundle includes the following content: - Gila Showdown - Demon Slayer Skin - Gila Showdown - Demon Slayer Pet - Gila Showdown - Demon Slayer Mount Gila Showdown is an upcoming PvP battleground where you can face both players and monsters online in the browser. Gila Showdown is the first in a series of battlegrounds focusing on cooperative and competitive gameplay, where you're not just the killer, but also the monster! Demon Slayer is the first class in the "Heroes" lineup and is the first class to receive a full skin set for comparison with other classes. Demon Slayer's skin features his dynamic touch animation and is focused on bringing out his vicious power. This skin is a limited edition item and is only obtainable from the new Double Bundle of Seasonal BattleBarbers. Q: How do you show that every cyclic abelian group is a finite direct sum of cyclic groups. I am currently working on proving that a cyclic group is a direct sum of a bunch of \mathbb{Z}_{p^n} 's. My solution begins with: $\mathbb{Z}_{p^n} = (\mathbb{1}) \oplus (\mathbb{p}) \oplus (\mathbb{p}^2) \oplus (\mathbb{p}^3) \oplus \dots$ I am then trying to show that \mathbb{Z}_{p^n} is a cyclic group with p generating elements that we will denote $s^k = (\mathbb{1}, \mathbb{1}, \mathbb{2}, \mathbb{1}, \mathbb{3}, \dots, \mathbb{1}, \mathbb{k})$ where $s^k = \frac{p^k - 1}{p - 1}$. Now, I am having some issues showing that s^k is an integer. A question I was posing myself yesterday was: "If s^j is a positive integer, why is $\frac{p^j - 1}{p - 1}$ an integer?" I tried plugging in various primes that I know to be factors of $p^j - 1$ and got the equation $\frac{p^j - 1}{p - 1} = \frac{p^j - 1}{p - 1}$, which just isn't making a whole lot of sense to me, especially when my textbook stated that the factor ring of \mathbb{Z}_{p^n} is isomorphic to \mathbb{Z}_{p^j} . Am I missing something super fundamental? If so, how do you show that $\frac{p^j - 1}{p - 1}$ is an integer. If not, can anyone clarify? Many thanks A: The number $\frac{p^j - 1}{p - 1}$ is certainly an integer, but your textbook must mean that the ring

Fleet Scrapper is a game set in a sci-fi universe. You are Commander Fleet and you have been given a beacon, which is now found. There's an AI and you must find out why it is malfunctioning. The game has completely original art and animation as well as characters design and dialog. Our goal is to create something fun and appealing to players, and hoping that players will learn about game design along the way. We have a big interest in crafting mechanics, game mechanics, and game design. In the game, players can fight their way through enemies, explore the environment, and interact with non-player characters. There are already 5 enemy types, each with a certain weaknesses and strengths, but there are many more types that can be added. Players can also find and use tools, and build items and structures. Features: FEATURES - Vast, non-linear and free-flowing environment - Completely original art and animation - Original characters and dialog - Multiple difficulty levels - Fully voiced English dialog - Numerous weapons and items - Multiple ship types - Over 30 levels per difficulty - Common use items, weapons and tools - Different environments, alien robots, etc. - RPG elements - Uses GMS 1.4 - Uses GraphicsGale for art, animation, textures, backdrops, and level designs - Completely coded by myself - completely original music - Gameplay is designed by myself - Multiple different game mechanics - Reverse "open world" system - Ship building - Structure building - Quests - AI manipulations - All researched and added by myself - Huge list of features that will be added upon release In Donut County, you play as a vampire who wants to get out of his hard life in an overcrowded city by being the person he never was. He also wants to have fun, eat lots of donuts, and show all his friends how cool he is. The game also features fast-paced "takt time" platforming, bite-sized crafting and cooking mini-games, plus a lot of humor and personality. Features: - Run, jump, and stomp through the beautifully pixelated stylized world. - Immediately brings to life the world of Donut County, 2 years in the making. - Craft over 200 items, including Pies, Cookies, and coffee. - Collect digital objects, including Sw c9d1549cdd

's Song The Innkeeper's Song is a 1930 American Pre-Code film produced by and starring serial star Pylon Pictures, starring Lon Chaney, filmed in the silent movie West Coast style and released by Warner Brothers as 15 Episodes. The film was a profit-making feature shot in the suspendedly mounted studio system of the West Coast. Main cast Pylon Pictures cast Pylon Films Lon Chaney (Lead role) Heinie Conklin (Lead role) Anne Schaefer (Lead role) Sally O'Neil (Lead role) Harry Burns (Lead role) Synopsis Heinie Conklin is a hot tempered, amateur boxer. He meets a gypsy who gives him a magic ring that will bring him whatever woman he desires without having to pay for it. Conklin begins using the ring to obtain women without paying. His actions eventually contribute to a murder. Production history Money troubles plagued Pylon Productions after the release of The Old Dark House. For the film The Innkeeper's Song, Chaney and Pylon devised the latest gimmick in silents: that of shooting the film in the suspendedly mounted manner. Shoot as though moving through the camera while also suspended. Pylon claimed that is the only way to give films the illusion of movement. In 1930 this meant using the 6 Strand Cube (originally designed for Modern Times by the American Cinematographer brothers. For this adaptation it had to be redone in the polished realism silhouette style. It was composed of 6, three-dimensional man-sized cubes suspended in space using a system designed by W. F. Waterman, who would later found Best Company in 1926. They would provide a commentary track and score of the film as it shot. Douglas Friedman was a commercial movie director who emigrated from Lithuania. In 1927 he partnered with Chaney to produce documentaries. In 1929, with the Pylon company and Chaney in the fore of the studio, they produced cinema releases in between the periodical shorts and "Omnibus" type productions. They used the mounting system developed for The Beast and He Made Me a Star for the film. The Innkeeper's Song tells the familiar story of Heinie Conklin wandering around the country in search of a woman. It is a model of the 1930's work. Only serious business is covered in the film. The rest of the film is: girl-getting, tired paths taken, Conk
