

“Amairo Chocolate: Another Side of Setaria!” Amairo Chocolate is a novel visual novel about how a village transforms into a cafe with three legged cats and a dog. If you can play to all the different routes, you may find an extra story with side characters! Story

In this land, people believe that there is something called “the cat race” that holds special powers and uses them for fortune. However, even though the cat races have their own lives, they are seen as a mess by those who don't understand them. The cat races don't have rights, but if they want to live, they have to work. One day, a boy comes to Yunagi Village. Mikuri, that's the waitress, sees this person's ears and tail and asks to buy him a drink. Together with her, the boy goes on a journey and finds the identity of the cat races and their friendship with the dog race. There are many kinds of cafe in the town, but this one is in fact “Cafe Setaria”. The expressions and names of all the cat and dog race members change accordingly. This cafe will go through various adventures by having fairies, stupid people, and even other races. What kind of world did you find? A coupled model for modelling and analysing the patellar tendon: a composite finite element model. A coupled model for the prediction of the complex nonlinear visco-elastic response of the patellar tendon and a semi-infinite rigid transverse ligament is constructed. The tendon is modelled as a three-layer transversely isotropic material model and the ligament is modelled as a semi-infinite beam. The model consists of 25 degrees of freedom, 11 material parameters and two tendon lengths to consider viscoelastic response. An automatic parameter calibration procedure was undertaken to predict experimental stress/strain data of the tendon obtained from previously developed models. The predictions were very close to the experimental results. The nonlinear viscoelastic response of the tendon was investigated. The model predicted the tendon flexibility, peak stress and strain response to changes in length and in the relative stiffness of the tendon to the ligament. The tendon strength was much lower than the ligament strength and decreased with tendon stiffness and increased with tendon length. The peak stress increased with tendon stiffness and decreased with tendon length. There was a 7% increase in peak stress and 8% increase in peak strain when the tendon strain was held at 0.4 of the maximum strain. The peak stress and strain approached constant values for tendon stiffness of 30 N/mm.

Greed 2: Forbidden Experiments! is a 1982 Hong Kong action-thriller film starring Jackie Chan. Directed by Jimmy Wang Yuen and written by Liang Chow, it is the second film in the Greed trilogy. Plot In Hong Kong on a hot summer night, suffering from heatstroke, FBI agent and martial arts master James Fong (Louis Koo) flees from Hong Kong to the barren desert to avoid a deadly bounty hunter gang. On the way, he finds a battered and empty wicker basket and a baby abandoned by a young couple, who happens to be the wife and the husband of the bounty hunter gang. Fong, in the process of adopting the baby in cold blood, accidentally knocks down the small pot of rice he uses for feeding. Within three days, James leaves the desert and checks into the Sam Cheung Hotel in Hong Kong. Upon learning a lost child was found in a wicker basket, Mabel, the lady receptionist, tells Fong the story of the baby, who is now eight years old. Fong then recognizes the baby's parents as the vicious bounty hunter gang - Big Gun (Francis Ng) and Lucy (Sylvia Chang). While being tipped off by Mabel, Fong leaves the hotel and goes to the mansion of Big Gun and Lucy. Big Gun and Lucy are playing chess when James enters, guns ablazing. Although even Lucy is crippled, the two gang members shoot James several times, revealing the FBI status of the latter. Lucy, the chess player, offers to trade the baby for James' life. James declines. The FBI in Washington D.C. instructs its Hong Kong office to place a $20,000 bounty on James. A much less-qualified bounty hunter, nicknamed "Twinkle Toes" (Alvin Wong), is hired. Before a strike team sends in to apprehend James, Twinkle Toes, who seems to know very little about James' martial arts abilities, tries to capture James by issuing an ultimatum - James must give himself up or be killed. To escape, James uses his skills and tries to follow Twinkle Toes into a rainwater-filled cave, but Twinkle Toes follows him into the cave. In order to get out of the cave, James has to defeat Twinkle Toes in sword-fighting, but Twinkle Toes proves to be no match for James. Just as Big Gun and Lucy meet the bait, they
