According to a report from Motherboard, a hacker sent a phishing e-mail to a customer of a home improvement retailer that suggested he had been locked out of his account and that he should click a link to take control of his account. That link instead loaded an executable program onto the customer's computer. Upon execution, that program hooked into the Home Depot e-mail server and used its administrative privileges to change the customers's password. Once that happened, the hacker was able to log into the customer's account and view an unlimited amount of Home Depot e-mails. A spokesperson from the company told Ars that the organization doesn't believe customers' information was exposed. Motherboard further said that the attacker only changed the customers's password once and accessed their account for about 20 minutes. This isn't the first time that Home Depot has been compromised by

The film's title is a reference to the Japanese ghost film The Dead of Akasaka. Plot When a young woman, Sera, arrives in Hong Kong, she is kidnapped by the people who kidnapped her. After she is successfully rescued, she regains her memory and remembers that her boss is a very dangerous man: a psychopathic supervillain known as the White Ghost. She goes to find him and the two exchange shots, with the White Ghost being injured and Sera escaping. When she returns to her apartment, her lover, Danny, reveals that he and the White Ghost are the same person. Danny is kidnapped by the White Ghost but Sera is able to rescue him, prompting the White Ghost to turn on her. Cast Bruce Lee as White Ghost/Danny Salar Yeganeh as Sera Ho Ying as Sera's mother Production The special effects in this film were the worst yet created by Bruce Lee in a Hong Kong film. Release The film was released in Hong Kong on 8 January 1968, and was subsequently re-edited in 1969 and appeared in the film Her Private Secretary (1969). It was released on Blu-ray and DVD by Shout! Factory in April 2010 in both Region 0 (U.S. only) and Region B with English subtitles and the same cover artwork as the DVD version. The 16:9 and 1.78:1 widescreen transfers are presented in Dolby Digital in mono audio. Reception The film grossed HK$470,000 6d1f23a050
